

Hello,

Federal government regulations should be viewed as the minimal standards that should be supported across the country. States should have the authority and the capability to impose additional rules to provide more pleasant environment than mandated by the Federal regulations. FCC can step in only if the additional rules are hurting the people. In this case, we New jersians are happy with the additional rules and hence do not see a role for FCC.